

Don't Let Soap Spoil Your Hair

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious to the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain uncolored coconut oil for this is pure and entirely unrefined. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else at all. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, and easy to manage. It is a hundred percent, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

HOLMES CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

Three arguments and part of the fourth were made in the superior court here on Tuesday in the trial of Royal G. Holmes on the charge of assault with intent to kill and murder Captain James Lennen at the captain's home at 40 Boswell avenue on the night of December 6th last.

The Wednesday morning at 9:45 State's Attorney Hadlai A. Hull will use ten or fifteen minutes that he has left to close up his final argument for the state and Judge William M. Malby will then charge the jury and pass the case over to their hands for their consideration.

Attorney Warren B. Burrows for the state and Attorney Arthur M. Brown and J. J. Burrows for the defense were the ones to conclude their arguments on Tuesday.

Attorney Warren B. Burrows who had been making a statement in the trial of the case made the opening argument for the state. He defined first what circumstantial evidence is and called attention to the confidential relationship between Captain Lennen and Mr. Holmes. The reputation of the accused is not evidence in this case, he said, and he called attention to the fact that the bloodstains on the floor behind him and the man who made the assault must have been inside the house. He then presented the evidence as to the bloodstains and blood on the floor.

Mr. Burrows said that the bloodstains on the floor were not explained even by Mr. Holmes did touch the captain. There was no blood on the floor, he said, and he called attention to the fact that the bloodstains on the floor were not explained even by Mr. Holmes did touch the captain.

He then presented the evidence as to the bloodstains and blood on the floor. He said that the bloodstains on the floor were not explained even by Mr. Holmes did touch the captain. There was no blood on the floor, he said, and he called attention to the fact that the bloodstains on the floor were not explained even by Mr. Holmes did touch the captain.

Mr. Holmes. The attorney stated three propositions that he would attempt to prove first, that Mr. Holmes was not a man apt to commit this crime, second, that he did not commit it, and third that on the facts he could not have been guilty of it.

The complete friendliness of the two families made it not necessary to commit this crime to suit the note. There had been other times and opportunities. The attorney reviewed Mr. Holmes' testimony as to his movements and claimed that the bright red blood on the floor was not his, but that of the captain.
